THE system of the present Catalogue is an adaptation of that of the British Museum to the special requirements of this Library. When the Author's name occurs on the title-page, or is given in the work itself, that name is taken as the heading. If the name does not occur either on the title-page or in the work, the book is treated as anonymous, even though the Author's identity may be otherwise ascertainable. Anonymous works are generally entered under the first substantive, unless mention is made of a person or place, when that name is adopted as the heading. In cases where the Author of an anonymous work is known, the name is added within square brackets, and a cross-reference made from it. In the case of pseudonymous works the entry is made under the pseudonym, with the Author's name, when known, within square brackets, and a cross-reference from the same. Descriptive designations such as "Artist," "Einheimischer," etc., are treated as the names of authors. Books published under initials are entered under the last of them, and a cross-reference given where possible from the Author's name, which is then also added to the main entry within square brackets. Publications of learned societies and institutions are entered under the name of the town or country where that society or institution holds its meetings, with a cross-reference from its name. The Bible and its component parts are arranged by languages under the general heading Bible, with sub-headings for the different parts and groups of books of the two Testaments in the order and orthography of the modern Catholic version. The Talmud and Kuran are entered under those words, cross-references being given from the names of translators and commentators. Jewish Service Books are entered under the heading Liturgies. Only anonymous dictionaries and vocabularies are entered under the heading Dictionaries. Presentation copies are only remarked when they bear the autograph of the donor, or some other indication of the fact.

Since the completion of this catalogue, the Plenarium, Buch der zehn Geboten, and the Luther tracts, have been presented to Stonyhurst College. Mr. Mocatta hopes that his collection will one day form the nucleus of a Jewish Library, which shall in a large measure contain works dealing with the Jews and their history.

I am indebted to Dr. Albert Löwy for the generous way in which he has placed his vast knowledge of Hebraica at my disposal; to Dr. H. Hirschfeld of the Jews' College, who has catalogued the Hebrew manuscripts; and to my brother Mr. W. B. Rye, without whose assistance in the correction of the proofs, the work could hardly have been so promptly completed. My best thanks are also due to Prof. Israel Gollancz and Mr. Magnusson, who have catalogued the Icelandic manuscripts, and to the Rev. G. Margoliouth of the British Museum, who has supplied me with a description of the Samaritan liturgy.

1. Quinque libri legis. Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numeri, Deuteronomium. 1543. Genesis has a special title.
2. Prophetæ priores. Josue, Judicum liber, Samuel, Regum II. 1544.
3. Paralipomenon. 1543.
4. Esdras. 1541.
5. Prophetia Isaïæ. 1539.

BIBLE. OLD TESTAMENT. [Hebrew]—continued.

6. Prophetia Jeremiæ. 1540.
7. Ezechiel. The date of this part is printed M.D.XL2. The 2 may have been put incorrectly for 11.; or may be a meaningless figure added inadvertently.
8. Duodecim prophetæ. Each book has a special title. Osee, Michæas, Nahum, Sophonias and Haggæus are dated 1539, Habaccuc 1559, probably a misprint for 1541, the types having been disarranged after setting up, and the other six books 1540.
9. Psalterium. 1540.
10. Proverbia Salomonis. 1540.
11. Job. 1541.
12. Canticum canticorum, Ruth, Lamentationes Jeremiæ, Ecclesiastes, et Ester. 1540.
13. Daniel. 1540.

This Bible was intended to be sold in separate parts, each of which is provided with a special title and numeration. It seems that Robert Estienne commenced with the Twelve Minor Prophets, intending at first to furnish the whole Bible with commentaries, but that delays and perhaps the expense occasioned by the work determined him to proceed with the text alone. This copy was formerly in the possession of the Duke of Marlborough, and was bought at the Sunderland sale, December, 1881. Imperfect, wanting the title to Osee.

56 small and 2 full-page woodcuts. Lombardic initials. Pigskin.

Only copy known. The type has been identified by Mr. Proctor as that used by Matthias Hüpfuff for the "Teutsch Kalender" printed

June 5th, 1504. (Proctor, Index, part ii., 10006. Type Facs. Soc., 1902, plate b.) It is a remarkable archaic German text recalling Augsburg or Nuremberg. Proctor (Index, part ii., p. 29) remarks that this Plenarium is certainly earlier than 1504, and seems not to be by Hüpfüff. The Lombardic initials are not the same as those he used in 1503, and the cuts seem more in the Augsburg style. But till an Augsburg book in the type is found, this Plenarium must be left with Hüpfüff as the only known user of it.

De Rossi, Ann. Sec. xv., p. 60. Fürst, Bibliotheca Judaica, ii., p. 84, incorrectly supposes it to have been printed at Constantinople. Steinschneider, Bibliographisches Handbuch, no. 71. Steinschneider, Catal. Bodl., col. 622, no. 3953. Schwab, Incunables orientaux, p. 37, no. 44: "C'est le premier lexique polyglotte imprimé; il se recommande spécialement à l'attention des romanistes par ses gloses en vieux français." Schwab, Le Maqré dardeqé, gives a list of the Italian words, transcribed in Roman letters. On p. 1 he gives the following description: "Ce dictionnaire se compose de trois colonnes. Les racines usuelles en hébreu, disposées—comme dans tout lexique—par ordre alphabétique, occupent la première colonne à droite. Elles sont écrites en grands caractères carrés; des blancs révèlent quelques omissions. A la fin de chaque lettre de l'alphabet, sont rangés les mots quadrilitères commençant par la même lettre: והאלה בני ד', ou ואלה בני ד'. En seconde colonne, après le mot hébreu, se trouve la version italienne, en caractères cursifs dits de Raschi, suivie généralement de la version arabe. Puis vient l'explication, empruntée tantôt aux rabbins, ר'זל, tantôt à R. David Qamhi, ר"ד, tantôt à Raschi (écrit soit ר"ש, soit le plus souvent ר"ש), avec fréquente mention des versions françaises (laazim) de ce dernier. La traduction est accompagnée d'un fragment de verset biblique cité pour plus de clarté: כמו, comme, par exemple. La 3^e colonne, dernière à gauche, indique la source de ce verset. Fort souvent une racine hébraïque offre plusieurs sens en italien, et le dictionnaire les donne." Ibid. p. 2, "L'édition princeps et unique de cet ouvrage . . . est devenue presque introuvable." LITURGIES. Samaritan Service Book.

[Samaritan Defter.] 176 leaves.

Manuscript on paper. 4°. 7 $\frac{5}{8}$ in., two columns, 21 to 29 lines to a full page. Some of the leaves have been misplaced in the binding, the proper place of fo. 51 being after fo. 52, and fo. 55 has to be read after fo. 56. The sequence of fo. 40-48 is also erroneous, for the catchword of fo. 40^b answers to fo. 48^a, and the catchword of fo. 47^b to fo. 46^a. Two leaves are missing at the beginning, and the MS. is also defective at the end, where probably only one leaf is wanting. The quires, which originally consisted of ten leaves each, are signed with Samaritan letters; thus כ on fo. 9^a, ג on fo. 19^a, etc. There are also later incorrect signatures in Arabic ciphers. Dated A.H. 1203 (1788-89 C.E.).

A copy of the Samaritan Service Book which is known by the name of Defter (ḏiḥḏépa), a common Arabic word for book. The original text (in Hebrew or Aramaic) occupies the right-hand column of a page, and an Arabic translation (almost entirely in the Samaritan character) is given in the left-hand column. The headings are also given both in Samaritan and Arabic, and the liturgical directions are for the most part in Arabic.

Several of the hymns have been published by M. Heidenheim in "Die Samaritanische Liturgie," Leipzig, 1885, and an account of the Defter in its different forms was given by A. Cowley in the "Jewish Quarterly Review" for October, 1894. The present recension is the latest, containing besides the composition of Marquah and Amram Darah (both of the 4th century) a number of much later pieces.

The contents may be grouped as follows:—

1. A preliminary, and perhaps earliest section, containing the introductory prayer known as על פתח רחמין and the so-called prayers of Joshua b. Nun, of the Holy Angels, and of Moses b. Amram, besides a few other pieces. The headings show that some of these compositions are recited on successive Sabbaths of the month. The others are for daily use. Fo. 1^a–21^a.

The first extant words in the present MS. are המנוחה והנחלה near the end of על פתח רחמין

2. The hymns of Marquah. Fo. 21^a–59^b. The first piece of this section begins אזל שלם יום שבתה and the last אדיק עלינן מרן
3. The Durrān (דראן), or hymns of Amram Darah. Fo. 59^b–86^a.

The first piece begins מר לית אלה אלא אחר and the last דכורה טבה דלא מנשי

LITURGIES. Samaritan Service Book—continued.

4. A prayer of Marquah, consisting of several parts, and beginning עבודה דעלמה אלהים יסתגר Fo. 86^b-111^a.
5. A prayer of Amram Darah, also consisting of several parts, and beginning עבודה דעלמה מן ישום רביאנך Fo. 111^a-121^a.
6. A prayer of the High Priest Elazar (prob. 14th century) Fo. 121^a-125^a.
Beginning אתהו יהוה פעל כל עלמה
7. A series of compositions partly by Marquah alone and partly compiled from pieces by Marquah and Amram Darah (בית דראן ובית מרקה) Fo. 125^b-148^a. Beginning אלהים אלהינו דקדם על כל בוראי
8. A series of pieces by different authors, including Abu'l-Ḥasan the Tyrian (11th century) and the High Priest Pinhas b. Joseph (14th century). Fo. 148^b-160^b.

The first piece (to be recited after the reading of the Torah on the morning of the Sabbath of the month) begins רבעי מדע מה הו חילה

9. A prayer for rain, composed by مسلم ابن صعم and Marjān (see Cowley, loc. cit., p. 125), the chant being the same as that of the prayer of Abisha (علي نغم ادونن ابيشي) Fo. 161^a-169^a.

Beginning אתפלל קמיר אה יקירא

10. A prayer for relief from the plague, composed by مسلم ابن صعم mentioned under No. 9. Fo. 169^b-176^b.

Beginning אליך רבי אקרא

This piece is imperfect at the end, the last extant words being דעל כל קהלינו.

Colophons giving the date of writing, etc., are found at the end of the principal sections.

On fo. 59^b is the following :—

تمت ذلك في ١٨ شهر جماد الاول سنة ١٢٠٣ وهو חדش אחד
عشر وهو ראש המופתים علي يد عبده مفرج ابن المرحوم
يهوشع ابن مفرج غفر الله تعالى له عن ذنوبه امين

This part was, therefore, finished on the 18th day Jumāda I, in the year 1203 of the Hijrah, the scribe's name being מפרג b. Joshua.

But in a colophon on fo. 156^a the scribe's name is given a מרחיב בן יהושע. There were thus at least two scribes, and it is to be noticed that the latter portions of the MS. are written in a much better hand than the earlier parts.

The Defter is rather rare in Europe. The British Museum has a large portion of the oldest known copy (thirteenth century). The Rylands Library, Manchester, possesses two copies (formerly the property of Lord Crawford), and there are some few copies on the Continent.

MOCATTA (FREDERIC DAVID).

[Address in gold letters on dark red morocco, signed by eight thousand persons, and presented to Mr. F. D. Mocatta, January 26th, 1897, on the occasion of his seventieth birthday, in testimony of affectionate regard and recognition of a life consecrated to the relief of the poor, the care of the sick, the prevention of cruelty, and the advancement of learning. The signatories include members of the Royal Family, the Duke of Westminster, the Marquis of Bute, the Earl of Meath, G. Faudel Phillips, Lord Mayor of London, Lord Rothschild, Chairman of the Presentation Committee, Dr. Adler, Chief Rabbi, His Eminence Cardinal Vaughan, Archbishop of Westminster, the Archbishop of Armagh, Primate of Ireland, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and many other personages in high authority. Many of the capitals of Europe contribute the signatures of their most distinguished representatives:—Paris, Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, Rome, Amsterdam, Brussels, Geneva, Copenhagen, as well as Jewish communities from all over the world.]

Bound in pale blue levant morocco by Zaehnsdorf. On the cover is an artistic group in silver, designed by Mr. Solomon J. Solomon, A.R.A., representing the figure of Charity as a mother holding a child in her arms. At her feet kneels a girl with a book, indicative of the benefits of education, together with an aged man, kissing in gratitude the hem of the garment of Charity. Below is the following inscription:—

PRESENTED TO
MR. FREDERIC DAVID MOCATTA
AT A PUBLIC MEETING HELD AT THE JEWS' FREE SCHOOL, LONDON,
JANUARY 26TH, 1897.

Doublure of light brown levant morocco, surrounded by a decoration of arabesque design and a border of deep red with the following texts in Hebrew and English: "Thou shalt surely open thine hand unto thy brother, to thy needy and to thy poor." "And what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly; and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." "Blessed is he that considereth the poor; the Lord shall deliver him in time of trouble." "The path of the righteous shineth as a light more and more unto perfect day." The Mocatta arms is worked in colours on the inside of the front cover.
